

Pro-Shield Insulation isn't just a sustainably-made cellulose insulation—it's a registered pesticide. As a blown-in insulation with 14.72% orthoboric acid, it offers an additional line of defense against listed pests while improving energy efficiency and reducing noise. With Pro-Shield, homeowners get advanced protection and peace of mind, all professionally installed by licensed pest control operators to ensure that it's applied correctly and effectively.

Pest protection: Borates deliver powerful results.

- 14.72% orthoboric acid active ingredient
- Helps prevent infestation of termites, ants, cockroaches, silverfish, crickets, and other listed pests

Energy efficiency: Durable performance that enhances comfort.

- Reduces air infiltration and acts as an excellent thermal barrier
- Dampens noise for a quieter, more comfortable living space

Environmental Sustainability: Pro-Shield is naturally sustainable and environmentally responsible.

- Made in the USA from recycled cellulose products with up to 50% renewable energy
- Contains no asbestos, glass fibers, or formaldehyde

Expanded Service Offerings: Add new revenue streams while offering your customers peace of mind.

- Easy to install with minimal training required for PMPs
- Requires limited overhead to add as a service offering

Defense that lasts. Comfort that saves.

From the experts in borates and sustainable structural protection.

For over thirty-five years, the experts at Nisus have provided sustainable, effective structural protection and pest control solutions across multiple industries. Pro-Shield Nsulation combines the benefits of cellulose insulation (such as thermal regulation, sound dampening, and sustainability) with the power of borates (like no active ingredient degradation over time and no known insecticide resistance), to give pest control operators a new service offering that protects their customers' most valuable asset: their home.

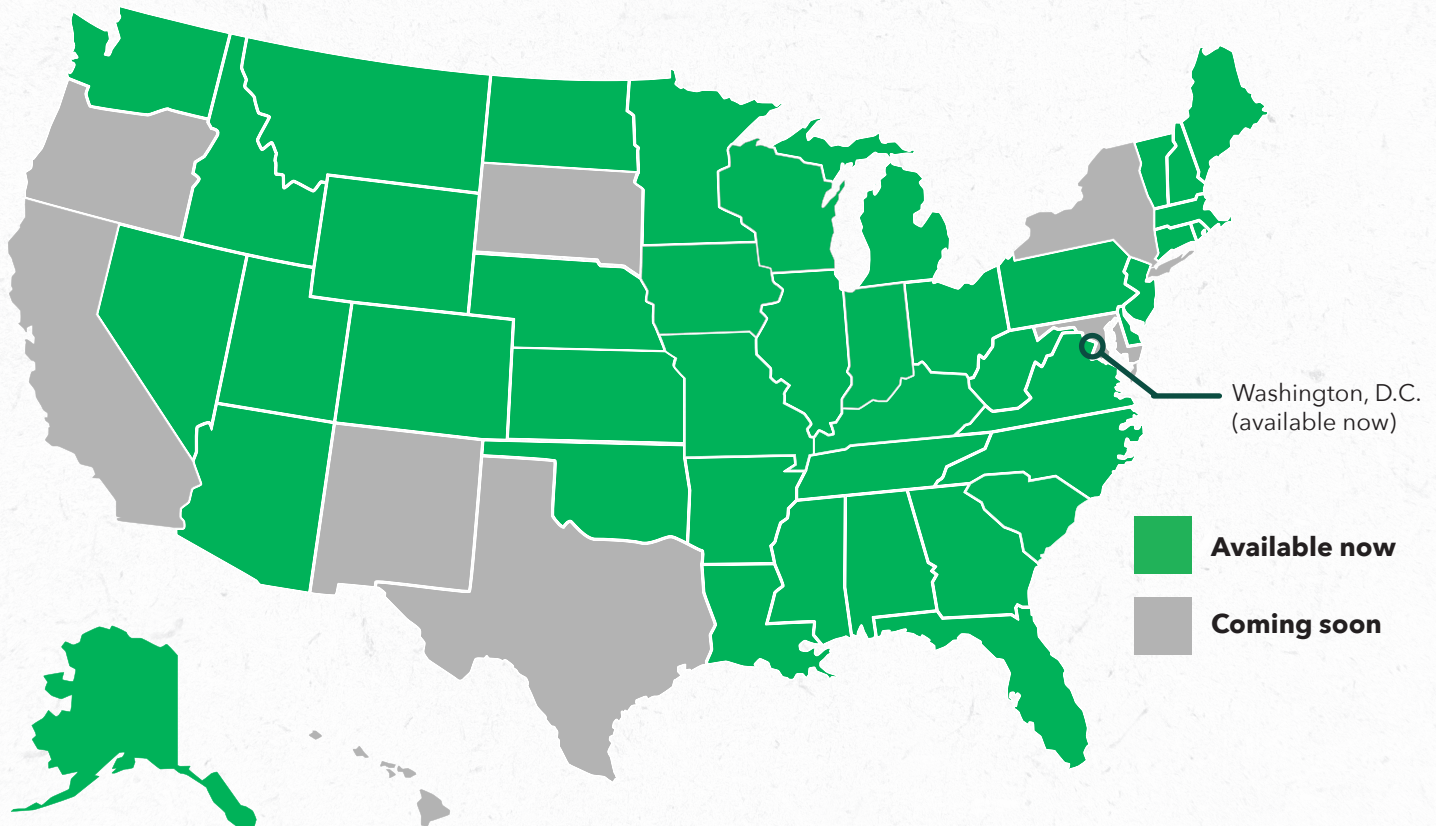

Ready to get started?

Our team is ready to provide training anywhere in the country. We are also proud to offer field and distribution support as you launch these new service offerings that can help protect your clients' homes from the crawlspace to the attic.

Pro-Shield is registered in the following states:

Is your state in gray? Don't worry! State reviews for Pro-Shield Nsulation are completed or in process for all fifty states.

CONTACT YOUR NISUS REP TO LEARN MORE

