JobTread Named Finalist for Best of IBS Awards for Second Consecutive Year

Dallas, TX – February 10, 2025 – JobTread Software, a leading construction management platform, has been named a finalist for the prestigious Best of IBS Awards at the 2025 NAHB International Builders' Show® (IBS) for the second year in a row. Recognized for its continued innovation and impact in the construction industry, JobTread once again stands out among top technology solutions driving efficiency and profitability for builders and contractors.

The Best of IBS Awards honors the most impressive and forward-thinking products and services showcased at IBS, the premier annual event for residential construction professionals. As a finalist, JobTread reinforces its position as a game-changing solution that empowers construction businesses to streamline operations, improve job profitability, and enhance project management with its user-friendly and comprehensive software platform.

"We are honored to be recognized as a finalist for the Best of IBS Awards for the second year in a row," said Eric Fortenberry, Founder & CEO of JobTread. "This achievement reflects our commitment to delivering innovative solutions that truly make a difference for our customers. Our team works tirelessly to provide the best construction management software in the industry, and this recognition further validates our impact."

JobTread's all-in-one platform provides builders and contractors with powerful tools for estimating, project management, financial tracking, customer communications, and more. With a focus on ease of use, real-time collaboration, and profitability insights, JobTread continues to set the standard for construction business software.

The winners of the Best of IBS Awards will be announced during IBS 2025, taking place February 25-27 in Las Vegas, NV. Attendees can visit JobTread at Booth #W3555 to see firsthand how the software is revolutionizing the way construction businesses operate.
