From the Home Comfort division’s next generation heat pump technology, to premium cooling, cooking, dish, laundry and espresso machines from Home Appliances, showgoers can feel like “Bosches” at Booth P337 and in home displays

Las Vegas, USA – From reliable heating, cooling and clean air, to a spotless load of dishes and barista-quality espresso drinks that beat the café in the morning, Bosch is showcasing how convenience, comfort and energy efficiency are made possible through its wide range of products throughout the home. The company is headed to Las Vegas, Feb. 25-27, 2025, for the National Association of Home Builders’ (NAHB) International Builders’ Show (IBS) with its Home Comfort and Home Appliances divisions at Booth P337 – reflecting the brand’s push for growth in North America.

“With our larger national joint campaign with Bosch Power Tools – ‘The More You Bosch, the More You Feel Like a Bosch’ – having kicked off this month, we’re continuing to drive home the fact that Bosch’s precision engineered consumer solutions make life easier and better across the home,” said Darcy Clarkson, CEO of BSH Region North America – the home appliances division of the Bosch Group. “Our premium home appliances and superior technologies from the Home Comfort division will be on full display at IBS 2025 within manufactured home displays at the show village and at our show stand, illustrating the fact that homeowners, customers and consumers can be true “Bosches” and enjoy the ultimate in innovation, comfort, quality and efficiency with Bosch powering many parts of their homes.”

“We are thrilled to exhibit the latest Bosch innovations in high-quality heating, cooling and hot water at IBS 2025,” said Alexander Wuthnow, president and CEO of the Bosch Home Comfort Group in North America. “From next-generation inverter heat pumps to highly efficient hybrid electric water heaters, BHC is committed to delivering affordable and energy-conscious HVAC systems, which will be featured alongside BSH’s premium home appliances for a comprehensive suite of home solutions. We look forward to connecting with builders, developers and other construction experts on how Bosch products can delight homeowners by adding comfort and innovation to their homes and lives.”
