Happy Friday! The framers were able to finish the first floor of framing. Our goal is to have the framing fully complete in the next 10-12 work days.

Wow, they did that fast. I know you mentioned that rain could delay certain aspects of the project. We are suppose to get some hard rain over the next few days. Think that will delay us?

Overall, we are quite satisfied with the first phase of the building. The construction progress has been smooth and the work has been completed in a timely manner. The team has been responsive to our needs and concerns, and the quality of the workmanship is impressive. We look forward to seeing the rest of the project come to fruition.
