

ABOUT US

Revolutionizing the building industry

Launched in 2020, canibuild is a cloud based residential sales tool that aims to bridge the communication gap between clients, sales and construction teams to deliver buildable and aligned residential projects.

We're a team of builders who also happen to know our tech pretty well.

Founder Timothy Cocaro is a builder by trade and also has a computer science degree. Likewise, co-founders Deepankur "Dee" Malhotra, Stella Cocaro and Shuvajeet "Nag" Nag all come from a construction background. This makes canibuild perfectly placed to understand the unique problems faced by builders. In fact, you'll often hear us say about builders, "We've walked a mile in their shoes."

canibuild is client centric – our clients are at the heart of everything we do. We believe that the best features of our product are developed in collaboration with our founders, IT team and clients.

Our Mission

Our mission is to revolutionize the traditional construction sales process into an instant point of sale.

Meet team canibuild canibuild's team are based across the globe and work remote first. They embody our values of Agility, Innovation, Hyper-Growth, Collaboration, Impact and Diversity.

We are builders, town planners, computer scientists, geospatial engineers, and leaders in Big Data, Codification, and AI. Led by our Founders who are also builders, engineers, operations managers and computer scientists, we speak, live and breathe construction. Together we have developed canibuild, a world-first application that is revolutionising how the building industry approaches compliance, design, and sales.

Tim Cocaro, CEO & Founder of canibuild
