

On 3 Field Learning

The home building industry's first learning management system (LMS) designed by homebuilders for home builders. Combining the latest in micro-learning, construction knowledge, and educational testing to transform the way you educate, verify, and support your team.

Imagine a world where everything a project superintendent or trade partner needs to know to do their job effectively was digitally at their fingertips and you as a builder could always verify their level of knowledge.

Power of On3.

Utilizing advanced mobile-based AI technology, On3 verifies each employee's knowledge level and changes the learning path for each person based on their competencies. On3 also spot checks employees for critical knowledge and brushes up their skills automatically. This level of technology provides your company with unprecedented power to improve quality, reduce warranty expenses, and speed new employee on-boarding.

Courses are created by you, and for you with On3. We have a course creation app that allows you to quickly generate content via a mobile device, or you can engage our team of learning development experts to create the courses you need, or simply modify one of the 1000's of construction courses we already have available in our course library.

On3 is a global field learning platform designed for frontline construction teams with the knowledge to help you build better, faster, safer and with scalable technology to improve build time and customer satisfaction.
